

COUNCIL REACHES DECISION ON CITY HALL

Talk By Otto Of Austria To Open Town Hall Meetings On Thursday

Otto of Austria, who is scheduled to lecture at the Salem Town hall meeting in the High school auditorium at 8 p. m. Thursday, was born on Nov. 20, 1912, in Reichenau, province of Lower Austria, Austria-Hungary.

His father was Charles, emperor of Austria and king of Hungary, and his mother Empress Zita, born princess of Bourbon. Emperor Francis-Joseph was his great-grand uncle.

The first years of his childhood were spent at the imperial castles in Vienna and Budapest. After the revolution of 1918, he left with his family for Switzerland and later for the island of Madeira, Portuguese Africa, where his father died in 1922, at the age of 35 years.

Otto of Austria

Otto of Austria studied in Switzerland, Spain and France. He attended the University of Louvain, Belgium, where he studied political and social science. He graduated as doctor of political science at the age of 21.

His main subjects for study were constitutional law, public finance, farming, economy and geo-politics.

In 1934 he published a book on farming legislation. This publication was followed by another one dealing with political doctrine, published in Vienna in 1937.

Foe of Totalitarianism

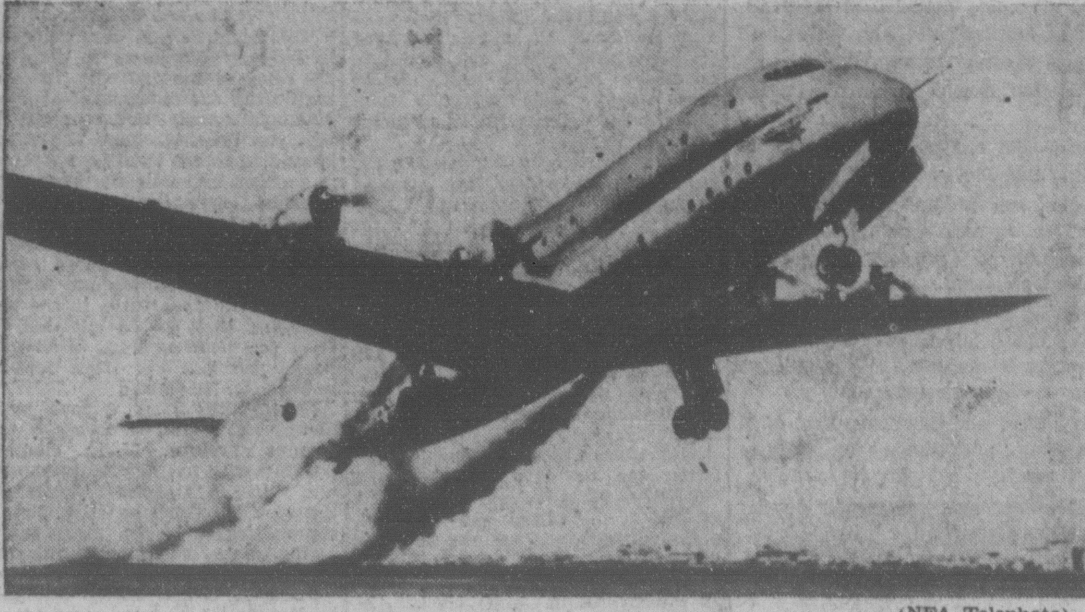

Otto has been very active in the inner politics of Austria and Hungary, since 1933. He was one of the outspoken foes of totalitarianism in all forms and made his point of view very clear in all of his public utterances. In fact, he was well up on Hitler's purge list and had been condemned to death by German military authorities.

He returned to Europe in the autumn of 1944, participating directly in the actions of the liberation of Austria. Since then he has traveled extensively through all the crisis areas of Europe, meeting with most of the democratic statesmen and leaders of the new Europe and making an extensive study and research trips through North Africa, the Near East, Arabia, India and China.

Otto moved to America in July, 1940, his residence being in Wash-

Navy's 'Constitution' Gets Jet Assist

(NEA Telephone)

The Navy's 180-passenger "Constitution" takes off from a New York airport with the aid of six rockets. Engineers say that jet assist permits the plane to shorten take-off runs nearly 24 per cent. Lockheed and Navy pilots have been testing the "Constitution" preliminary to final acceptance of the Navy department.

One-Story Building Planned; Shelter, Offices In House

Salem is going ahead with the proposed new city building with the money on hand, city council decided after conferring with its architect Saturday afternoon.

Considerably short on funds (due to rising building costs since a $160,000 bond issue was approved in November, 1946), council's city hall committee, headed by Fred Koenreich, has decided to erect the first floor of the proposed two-story structure and, secondly, to house the city offices in the McKelvey property located on one of three lots on the new building site at the southwest corner of S. Broadway and E. Pershing st.

The new program, which is believed to be within the limits of the funds available, will have the fire, police and water departments housed in the new building on the two lots nearer E. Pershing st.

The McKelvey home, the third lot from the Pershing st. corner, will house the mayor's, city auditor's, relief and engineer's offices with probable provisions for other city offices as needed.

Council's chamber, now part of the water office in the old building, also will be provided for in the temporary office building.

The erection of the new building also will necessitate the widening of E. Pershing st. and Filbert st. at least in the building area, council representatives said.

It is planned to widen Pershing, between S. Broadway and S. Ellsworth ave., to about 40 feet, Koenreich explained. Filbert st. will have to be widened to facilitate the fire department's emergency outlet.

Two-Hour Session

Council reached this decision Saturday afternoon after conferring for two hours with C. G. Hall, representative of the Wilbur Watson & Associates architectural firm of Cleveland.

Hall told council that he believed the funds available, estimated at about $120,000, would be sufficient to erect a one-story structure.

The proposed plan would erect the building so as to make it feasible to add the second story originally planned when funds are available.

Koenreich said council had decided a month ago not to request additional funds from the public.

Council asked the architect to secure estimates from four local contracting firms to determine if the funds available are sufficient.

May Start In Spring

If these estimates show the project reasonable, council will proceed with the project as outlined. Ground may be broken in the spring.

Meanwhile, council advised the board of control to proceed with the letting of bids to purchase and remove the Norman Paxson and Emma Webber residences.

High bids on those properties were by the Kaufman brothers for the Webber property $500, and by Robert Englert of Salem for the Paxson residence, $135. The purchasers agreed to remove the structures from the properties within 90 days after purchase.

The City of Salem paid $40,000 for the three properties. No monetary bid was received for the McKelvey property.

600 DEAD DURING KOREAN REVOLT OVER COMMUNISM

SUNCHON, South Korea, Oct. 25—Golden Rice fields, roads, streets and the police compound are strewn tonight with the bodies of an estimated 600 persons killed in last week's revolt here.

Loyal forces have recaptured the city and begun executing rebel Communists and Communist sympathizers. Twenty-two were shot, a few hours ago and their bodies are lying at the edge of a plaza.

The town in without lights. Occasionally a carbine bark. Machine-guns command streets and buildings. Grieving women and children still are searching for missing loved ones.

Communist led rebels from Yosu started a two-day reign of terror on Wednesday. They attacked the police station after loyal soldiers, sent here from Kwangju to stop them, refused to accept the surrender of a few who offered to lay down their arms. Some of the Loyalists even joined the rebels.

Hobby and Antique Show Over Weekend Draws 600

More than 600 people attended the third annual antique and hobby show sponsored by the Salem Stamp & Coin club over the weekend in the Memorial building, according to Frederick W. Koenreich, treasurer of the club and general chairman of the show. A number of those in attendance were from nearby towns.

Among the many stamp frames exhibited was one of Austrian stamps, owned by Vincent Pietras of Penn. ave., a member of the club. He said his Engelbert Dollfus stamp is valued at $100.

Ray Pearce and O. J. Hagedorn are president and secretary, respectively, of the club.

SEVEN IN FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE

Parents, Five Children Die When Home Burns Near Massillon

(By Associated Press)

MASSILLON, Oct. 25—A kerosene stove was blamed today for a fire which leveled a two-room dwelling near here and killed all seven members of a family.

Victims of the blaze in the the Navarre section, early yesterday were Harry DeVoll, 30; his wife, Vivian, 28, and their five children, Jimmy, six; Evelyn, five; Howard Leroy, three; Billy, two, and Allen Ray, two months.

Fire Chief Clifford Johnson of Navarre and sheriff's deputies said the stove was believed to have caused the fire. Several weeks previously it blazed up and had to be extinguished with a bucket of water, they reported.

A neighbor, William Rockstroh, said he noticed a flash at the home shortly before the fire began about 1:30 a. m. He said he drove to the tiny frame dwelling in his car. However, he saw no flames and so returned home.

DeVoll's father, Delbert DeVoll, 63, who lived nearby, and a neighbor, George Muskoff, dragged Mrs. DeVoll and the five children from the blazing home, but they were pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital here.

The body of her husband was not recovered until hours later. He was at first believed to have been at work at the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad roundhouse at Brewster, where he was employed as a fireman.

Ward Smith, 28, first spotted the blaze as he drove past the house on his way home.

Mass funeral services for the family will be held tomorrow at a funeral home here. Burial will be in Union Lawn cemetery in Navarre.

The victims' home was built by DeVoll and his father on a one acre tract of land in a rural section.

Wildly Assails Six Nation Proposal In U.N.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Oct. 25—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the Security Council today he is prepared to veto a small power compromise resolution on the Berlin crisis if it is brought to a vote.

With both arms flailing the air, Vishinsky denounced a six-nation resolution aimed at settling the crisis arising from the Soviet blockade of Berlin. He said it was unfair to Russia.

Vishinsky said the Berlin question should never have been brought before the Security Council in the first place. Earlier, an authoritative source said the three western powers had rejected a Russian counterproposal for ending the blockade.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister said his main objection to the resolution was that, while the blockade was to be raised at once, "only talks will be organized."

A truck-trailer driven by Howard D. Dye of Conneaut collided with a car driven by Ernest Weiner of Columbiana at 4 p. m. Saturday on E. State st.

Mrs. Esther R. Raub, 48, of Youngstown, was killed instantly at 3:45 p. m. Saturday in a truck-auto accident on Route 164, the Salem state highway patrol reported.

The mishap occurred on a small bridge northeast of North Lima, two miles north of the junction of Routes 164 and 638.

The victim suffered a fractured skull, broken neck and crushed chest. She was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Youngstown South Side hospital.

According to the patrol, a truck driven by Amos McKeekie, 28, of Youngstown collided with Mrs. Raub's car on the bridge. The truck was headed north and swung to the left of the center line, while making a curve on the bridge approach.

The bed of the truck slashed through the top of the car, striking Mrs. Raub.

The Raub car was on the bridge and she had no chance to swerve away from the truck, the patrol reported. The car was demolished.

McKeekie was treated at the Youngstown South Side hospital for a fractured collarbone.

COMPOSER LEHAR OF 'MERRY WIDOW' FAME, DEAD AT 78

VIENNA, Oct. 25—Composer Franz Lehár, 78, whose lilting light opera music is known and sung throughout the world, died yesterday at his home in Bad Ischl.

Lehar, whose charming melodies and graceful waltz themes were universally loved, was the composer of the "Merry Widow" and several other operas that are among the present day's last links with the light-hearted music for which Vienna was famous.

His physician said the composer who had been critically ill for six weeks, died of cancer. His illness was complicated by gastric ulcers, double pneumonia and a heart ailment.

Famous For Hits

Although Lehar composed several sonatas and symphonic poems, the world knew him best for his great hits, topped by the "Merry Widow" and including "Springtime," "Gypsy Love," "The Count of Luxembourg," "The Land of Smiles," "The Man With Three Lives," and "The World Is Beautiful."

The "Merry Widow," first produced in Vienna on Dec. 30, 1905, has been produced in the United States more than 5,000 times, and has been performed more than 1,000 times in the capitals of Europe.

In Buenos Aires it once ran simultaneously in five theaters in five different languages.

At Lehar's bedside when he died were his brother, Baron Anton von Lehar, and his sister, Emma Marie Paphazy, widow of a Hungarian count.

His funeral will be held Saturday. Lehar's estate is estimated at more than $1,000,000. He recently drew up a will leaving his home to the town of Bad Ischl as a shrine with 10 per cent of the income from his estate to maintain it.

Lehar was born April 4, 1870, in Komorn, Hungary, then a part of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

DRAW FINES, JAIL TERMS AFTER ROW

George, Dave and William Ehrhart of Salem, arrested by Struthers police following the Friday Struthers football game Friday night, were fined $50 and costs each by Mayor Thomas Needham of Struthers.

Thirty-day jail sentences also were imposed.

The three were arrested following a session of after-game rowing of some Struthers fans. One of the patrolmen intervened in the argument and a fight ensued.

Mayor Needham said he was "favorably impressed with the boys" and that he may show some leniency on the jail sentence. He said he thought they were "emotionally upset" over the outcome of the game.

The brothers were arraigned late Saturday afternoon and pleaded guilty to a charge of interfering with a police officer, a violation of a Struthers city ordinance.

Candidates In The Stretch; Argue Over Palestine Ideas

(By Associated Press)

The presidential campaign hit the stretch drive today with President Truman and his Republican opposition accusing each other of playing politics with Palestine.

Shortly before he set out for Chicago and the first of a final series of big city speeches, Truman last night declared his support of the original United Nations plan to partition the Holy Land, subject only to changes approved by the new Jewish state of Israel.

In a statement which White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said had been "cleared with the State department," the President also asserted he has ordered swift study of Israel's application for an American loan.

Forced To Restate

Truman said he had been forced to "reiterate my own position" because Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had "seen fit" to speak out on the subject last night.

The GOP presidential nominee—who also takes the road tonight for his campaign wind-up—offered an immediate rejoinder.

But Campaign Manager Herbert Brownell, Jr., said Dewey simply had complied with a request that he re-state his support of the Republican platform plank in favor of partition. Brownell added:

"It is regrettable that the President is making politics of an issue so important to the peace of the world."

Ross' announcement that Truman's statement had been cleared by the State department followed a period of some uncertainty over how it squared with Secretary of State Marshall's stand.

Marshall last month gave his approval at the U. N. meeting in Paris to a proposal for modifying the 1947 partition plan. The suggested changes—drafted by the late Count Bernadotte, U. N. mediator in Palestine—came under strong Jewish criticism.

It was Marshall's action which promoted Dean Alfange, chairman of the American Christian Palestine committee of New York, to ask Dewey for his views. Alfange said last night:

Calling Marshall's endorsement of the Bernadotte plan "a repudiation" of the Democratic platform plank, Alfange added: "Since Mr. Truman remained silent, it was presumed he acquiesced in the repudiation."

No Reference

Truman did not refer to the Bernadotte or any other plan by name. He said U. N. negotiations are going on now seeking to settle conflicting Arab and Jewish claims. And he voiced the hope that the plan now

PLAN MEETING ON ARMS PACT

Invitations To Conference To Make U. S. Military Pact Go Out Soon

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—Invitations to a portentous conference to draft a military alliance between North America and Western Europe will be issued formally by the five-nation Western European Union or by the United States.

Nations expected to take part in the initial phases are the United States, Canada and Europe's Western powers—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Several other countries in the non-Communist lineup—notably Italy, Iceland, Norway—may join in the talks at some point.

Officials here say it is not yet clear whether the invitations will be issued formally by the five-nation Western European Union or by the United States.

Conferences On

Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett began conferences early this year with the ambassadors of Canada and the western European countries on the question: What form should United States military support for Europe take?

This government's only guide for action—aside from Europe's need—was the senate resolution adopted last spring advocating the association of the United States with nations having common security interests.

Along with the Washington talks, the United States has taken part in the efforts of the western European nations to link their military resources and lay the basis for a huge new American military aid program.

The proposed North Atlantic alliance has been sketched out in rough outline in the Washington talks. It would commit the United States to military involvement in the affairs of Europe more deeply than it ever before has pledged in peace-time—although not more deeply than it actually is involved now with occupation armies stationed in Germany and Austria.

Mr. Truman's Loud Silence

Summing up what has been said in the presidential campaign, many will be aware during the closing days, of a significant and loud silence on the part of Mr. Truman.

He has not spoken about his plans for the future, in the remote event that all the pre-election hope is wrong and he wins the election. He has not explained how he hopes to get along any better with the 81st congress than he got along with the 80th congress, nor how he proposed to improve the atmosphere of government administration.

He did say in a speech at Johnstown, Pa., last Saturday that if he were elected, with a Democratic majority in both houses of congress, certain controversial measures would be whopped through. But that was a good deal like saying that if the cook had some ham there would be ham and eggs if someone had the eggs. A Democratic majority in both houses of congress is not in the cards.

This lack of plans for improvement in the relationship between the White House and congress is Mr. Truman's heaviest handicap. At the same time it is Governor Dewey's greatest advantage. The fact is that Mr. Dewey is capable of running an efficient administration; his New York record proves it. Mr. Truman's record proves the opposite. Voters expect improvement if Mr. Dewey is elected. They despair of improvement if Mr. Truman is elected. That has been a more potent argument for Dewey and a more potent argument against Truman than anything which has been said in the campaign.

The people of the United States are interested only incidentally in the fortunes of politicians and political parties. They are interested directly in the strength and efficiency of their government. Governor Dewey offers a continuation of what has turned into a ramshackle administration held together loosely with baling wire and chewing gum.

A Relevant Question

The outcome of the disputed Texas senatorial election has been allowed to stand because Justice Black held that federal courts lack jurisdiction in disputes involving state elections. The Supreme court as a whole concurred.

This gives new relevance to the question: If the federal government has no authority to regulate state elections, how does congress propose to pass a constitutional law nullifying poll taxes?

If congress ever gets around to passing the bill outlawing poll taxes in the seven states that levy them, the high court will be asked to rule on its constitutionality. The court has just held that a federal judge lacks the power to issue a ruling in a state election. That's a good indication it will rule, when the times, that no federal agency has the right to set forth how a state shall conduct its elections. A constitutional amendment is the only sure method by which a poll tax repealer can be made to stick.

River Crossers

Along the Rio Grande a wetback is a Mexican who sneaks across the river, evading immigration authorities.

In recent days more than 4,000 have come across—so many that border patrols have given up efforts to stem the illegal tide. Instead, the wetbacks are considered under arrest and paroled in custody of the Texas employment commission, which finds work for them on farms where they are badly needed at this season. This dubious technicality gets around the Mexican government blacklist of Texas.

The Mexican government expresses rage at this evasion of its directive. But the eagerness with which its nationals splash across the river indicate they aren't wrought up about Texas discrimination as their government is supposed to be.

The unfortunate aspect is that the workers are admitted on a questionable technicality. If Mexico refuses to take them back when the harvest season is over, we may have a displaced persons problem in our southwest.

Harried Harry

The University of Wisconsin and the Stuhldrehs have been much in the news in recent days. Harry Stuhldreher is Wisconsin's football coach. Wisconsin teams haven't been faring well. As Wisconsin lost to Yale 17-7 a week ago, students in the stands raised a banner which read: "Goodbye Harry."

It so happens that the current Saturday Evening Post carries an article by Mrs. Stuhldreher, which she had written months before. Titled "Football Fans Aren't Human," it depicts the life of Harried Harry and his family. The list of the article is that football coaches are great fellows when they have winning teams, but when they have losers they become campus pariahs and their families draw their share of ruffian treatment.

Football coaches, of course, go into the business with their eyes wide open. Being put on the pan by eager-beaver students and outraged alumni is an occupational hazard. That such a hazard exists is no tribute to campus sportsmanship. But it will exist as long as college football is big business.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, Oct. 26
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE indications are that a shrewd, astute and alert grasp of the current conditions and status might be the means of opening up new and desired opportunities, with much profit and pleasure.

A thorough preparation for such possibilities, with attention to detail and system, could yield rich returns. Friendly interest and substantial support could develop from curious or strange contacts in which idealism, fancy or imagination have part. Keen grasp of such unrealistic aspects could prove radical and soul-satisfying.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of the unusual, fantastic and irregular, but prepare for a radical and strange state of affairs, in which keen insight, adaptability and readiness might develop unforeseen adventures in which much profit and pleasure might materialize.

There are many unique factors to be astutely and quickly manipulated for spectacular or sensational demonstrations. Detail and sound tactics are not to be discounted. Personal relations or contacts could be idealistic and happy as well.

A child born on this day will be alert, versatile and talented, its sharp mentality and insight sustained by inner vision.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN

A British scientist finds laughing gas present over the United States . . . that's not surprising after 96 campaign speeches.

With one of the candidates it's difficult to tell whether he's auditioning for the first Tuesday in November or any Tuesday on radio.

Pick your own boy. I have two . . . they're small.

But the campaign proves that any American boy can grow up with the idea of living in the White House . . . and for the first time it's frightening.

Jesse Jones believes that a president should be limited to one term of six years . . . if they can't have that some candidates will settle for four terms of four years.

Anyway the campaign is getting so interesting that two columnists have declared war and no reader has noticed it.

Socks will last longer, kids, if you leave them off and wear your duds.

POLICE CHECKING
CASE OF STARVED
14-YEAR OLD BOY

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — Three persons were taken into custody for questioning today in the case of Gordon Kelly, a 14-year-old boy found Wednesday night half-naked and apparently starving.

The boy was discovered scratching at the door of a west-end house begging for food several hours after he ran away from home. He weighed only 45 pounds.

He told police and Judge D. Webster of York county family court he had been held in slavery and mistreated for nearly two years by an elderly couple he referred to as his aunt and uncle. He said he had lived on bread and water, was forced to do heavy housework and "almost every day" was beaten.

Kelly thought his parents had died about four years ago.

The persons held for questioning were taken by police from a house in a suburban York township.

Earlier the boy's identification was established by Ralph McIntosh, principal of Toronto's Tawlinson school. The principal was taken last night to the psychiatric hospital where Kelly is being held for observation. He said he knew Kelly four years ago as a pupil at Silverthorn public school in York township.

The identification ended speculation the boy might be Richard (Pee Wee) Marlow, who disappeared in 1944 at the age of nine from his home in Toronto's suburbs and has not been seen since.

The boy told police he lived with an elderly "Aunt and Uncle" in Mount Dennis, a tiny suburb about four miles west of Toronto. He said he believed his parents had died about four years ago.

"I was locked in the clothes closet most of the day," he said. "I was given food only twice a day—bread and water. At night I slept on a couch, but I couldn't see out because the blinds were pulled tight."

The boy said he was forced to do heavy housework and that he was beaten almost every day by the elderly couple. His back was scarred and bruised.

The boy said he escaped yesterday when he was allowed to go on the back porch.

Different Causes of Dizziness

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D. in the head position than general dizziness.

AT one time or another nearly everybody suffers from dizziness or vertigo. Usually it is a passing thing, but, if it persists, an examination is in order so that the cause may be determined.

Some people find they are both-ered in this way only when the head is held in certain positions, whereas others become dizzy only when the head is moved from one position to another. The latter type of dizziness is usually accompanied by a disturbance of the eyes, known as nystagmus, in which the eyes roll slowly to one side and then move rapidly in the opposite direction.

Cause of Dizziness
This symptom is very important in helping the doctor to determine the cause of the dizziness. In carrying out an examination of a patient with nystagmus, the doctor will first test the hearing. Then the patient is studied to see whether nystagmus is present lying on the back. Then pressure is put on the neck over what are known as the carotid sinuses, which are a collection of nerves. Pressure on these sinuses may produce dizziness and fainting.

The patient then turns to the right side, and then to the left side, and then the head is hung backwards; finally he sits up, steps forward, and shakes his head.

During all these various movements, he is studied to see if nystagmus develops. If, in changing position, the nystagmus does occur, and there is deafness or ringing in the ears, it indicates that there is some disease of the inner ear.

One of the conditions which may be responsible is known as Meniere's disease, in which there is ringing in the ears, deafness, and attacks of dizziness.

In some cases, the disturbance may be due to an inflammation of the middle ear. In other cases, the trouble may have been caused by undetected hemorrhage into the inner ear.

Disorders within the skull more often cause dizziness with changes

Esther Jane Freet Wed In Church Ceremony Sunday

A bright autumn afternoon lent inspiration to the wedding of Miss Esther Jane Freet of Washington ave., and James Stephen Ball of Warren at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Christian church, which was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends.

Two tall beauty baskets filled with large white mums, pompons and pine were featured in a lovely setting of palms and ferns lighted by white candles in two sets of seven-branch candelabra. Large bows of white ribbon marked the family pews.

Vows were exchanged in the double ring ceremony, with Rev. E. S. Scott, pastor, performing the rite.

Music was provided by Stephen Marrie of Youngstown, brother-in-law of the groom, soloist, and Mrs. Ruth Berry, church organist.

For the prelude, Mrs. Berry played, "On Wings of Music," "Kashmir Song," "Minuet Celebre," "Arioso," "Cavatina" and "Pastorale."

Mr. Marrie's numbers were "At Dawning," "Because" and "Through the Years." Mrs. Berry also played the traditional wedding marches.

Ushers, Glenn King and William Whitfield of Warren, led the bridal procession, followed by the matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Bair, sister of the bride, and Carolyn Sue Bair, niece of the bride, who was flower girl. Billy Beichler of Austintown, cousin of the groom, ring bearer, carrying the rings on a white satin pillow, preceded the bride. They met the groom and his best man, Alfred Edmunds of Warren, at the altar.

Colonial designed gowns were chosen by the bride and her matron of honor.

White Satin Gown
Walter P. Freet gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's handsome gown was created of white satin, with ruffled lace outlining a marquisette yoke, round neckline, long sleeves pointed at the wrist, tiny buttons down the back of the fitted bodice, which was attached to a full hoop skirt ending in a train. A net lace trimmed finger-tip veil, which fell from a halo of orange blossoms, completed her costume. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Bair's attractive gown was fashioned of mauve satin, with a square neckline, puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and a hoop skirt. She wore a flower halo and carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze mums.

The charming little flower girl was attired in a yellow taffeta formal with a bustle back skirt. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Men in the bridal party wore black tuxedos.

The pearl earrings she wore were the groom's gift.

Mrs. Freet chose for her daughter's wedding a plum colored crepe dress and augmented it with grey accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a grey crepe dress, used blue accessories and wore a corsage of Talsman roses.

Reception at Church
A reception followed in the church social room, which was replenished with bouquets of vari-colored fall flowers. The lace covered refreshment table was beautifully-appointed with white flowers and white candles in crystal candelabra. The decorated three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a bell ornament.

Mrs. Clarence Dressel cut the cake; Mrs. James Vocature and Miss Ruth Swaney poured and Mrs. Gerald Shasten was in charge of the guest book.

Guests were from Salem, Cambridge Springs and Edinboro, Pa., Youngstown, Buffalo, N. Y., New

Carnegie Tech Students Roused On Football

Blame 18 Straight Losses On President's "Simon Pure" Policies Toward Players

(By United Press) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25 — The Carnegie Tech campus was livid with painted protests today as the student body revolted against the directorship of its winless football team.

The long-smouldering student uprising erupted after the Tartans lost their 18th consecutive game last Saturday, bowing to Case, 26-20. Once a football power, Carnegie Tech hasn't won a game since 1942.

Irate students, armed with black and red paint, splashed the campus walks with foot-high protest signs and members of a student committee circulated a petition demanding a dismissal of Bill Donohue as head coach. The petition asked that a new coach be hired and Donohue be demoted to an assistant coaching position.

One sign painted on the sidewalk at the entrance to the administration building read: "Here lies school spirit: Born 1909, died 1939. A short distance away another said, "Down With Donohue."

Both referred to the school's sports

PERFECT TOSSES BY OTTO GRAHAM WIN FOR BROWNS

Return of Dante Lavelli Gives Champs Spark: Win 35-7 Sunday

By FRITZ HOWELL CLEVELAND, Oct. 25 — A perfect pitching arm and a recently-mended broken leg were co-heroes today of Cleveland's All-American conference champion Browns.

The pitching arm was that of "Automatic Otto" Graham, who completed 21 of 30 tosses for 310 yards and four touchdowns in yesterday's 35-7 win over the New York Yankees before 46,912 fans. He scored the fifth marker on a 22-yard run after faking an aerial.

The broken leg, suffered in the opening exhibition contest of the season, belonged to Dante Lavelli, former Ohio State wingman. He got into action against the Yanks after climbing off the hospital list, and caught two touchdowns passes, one for 29 yards and another for 17, plus three others for a total gain of 99 yards.

Coach Paul E. Brown, who hasn't denied reports that he's through with professional football after this season, tabbed Lavelli as "the difference" in the contest. He also said "Lavelli furnished the spark we've been looking for all year."

The Browns, with Graham pitching like a Bobby Feller on one of his good days, hurled the Browns to their eighth straight conference victory with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Lavelli in the first period; a 63-yard scoring heave to Halfback Bob Cowan and a nine-yarder to Mac Speedie in the second; a 17-yarder to Lavelli in the third, and then ran for 22 for the final marker in the fourth.

The Yankees, in losing their sixth in eight games, failed to score until the last 35 seconds when Pete Layden tossed a 34-yard touchdown pass to Butchy Young, after Otto Schenlbacher had returned an intercepted pass 46 yards.

It was the 11th straight victory for the Browns, their 17th without defeat, and completed a 29-game stretch in which they had lost but one.

Arthur (Mickey) McBride, owner of the Browns, taking cognizance of the recent controversy between the All-American conference and the National football league, said:

"I have not lost interest in my football team, or in the further building and betterment of the All-American conference.

"I am for two leagues. I'd like to see a World Series in football, just as we have in baseball. The only way either our league or the National can survive is for us to get together."

de-emphasis policy under Tech President Dr. Robert E. Doherty. The "simon pure" athletic program was blamed for Tech's steady decline in the sports world since 1939.

Dr. Doherty said he wasn't taking the demonstrations seriously as yet. "All we need is a few victories and things will change," he said.

Doherty said he would not readjust Tech's sports policy. He said the Tartan's dismal record had left student morale "as good as it has ever been."

Some members of the football team, however, joined the dissatisfied group, complaining that they "have to jump to keep our grades up and yet play."

"We don't get enough time to practice and we're playing teams that practice twice as much as we do," one player remarked. "We just can't get into condition on that schedule."

In their petition, the student committee said it was not "unreasonable" for the students to expect its football team to play such teams as Bucknell, Tufts, Brown and Temple on even terms. "We don't expect or want to play teams in the class of Michigan and Notre Dame," the petition said.

As a remedy for its sports ills, the petition called upon the school to grant scholarships to outstanding athletes and inaugurate a five-year engineering and fine arts program to ease their scholastic schedule during football season.

TORONTO SWAMPS LEETONIA 72 TO 0

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — Toronto swamped the Leetonia Bears under an 11 touchdown barrage to win 72 to 0 in Toronto stadium Friday night.

Lee Simpson, Red Knight fullback, led the barrage with three touchdowns and one extra point with 10 members of the Toronto backfield joining in the scoring. Simpson scored first on the fourth play of the game with a 34 yard dash through the line. Following a safety for Toronto when Duco of Leetonia fell on a bad pass from center in his end zone, Red Knights marched 36 yards with Simpson going over from the two yard line.

Simpson scored again with a 38 yard run early in the second quarter and plunged for the point. Conlon ran 17 yards for a touchdown after Hawkins raced a punt back 33 yards.

Lastivka scored from the two and Keenan plunged for the point. Butler scored from the two after a 33 yard march.

Paul Simpson scored from the five after a 40 yard march. McConnell scored on a 13 yard run of Toronto's blocked kick by Lippert. McConnell plunged for the point.

Hunter scored on 24 yard sprint. Rozak carried 25 yards to the six and six yards for the score to end the scoring. Tarr plunged for the point.

CANFIELD THUMPS GOSHEN SATURDAY

CANFIELD, Oct. 25 — Canfield High gladders turned on the power Saturday to whip Goshen township, 38-0, in a Mahoning County league game.

Ed Baker dashed 55 yards for touchdown soon after the opening kickoff. Jack Bowman missed the conversion.

Canfield added two second period touchdowns. Baker whirled from the 49 to the 18 and Jim Barnes broke away for a score. Bowman failed on the conversion. Later Bowman passed on the 34 yard to the 15 to Van Brocklin and he was spilled on the one. Bowman hit pay dirt through the line. Barnes skirted end for the point, after a bad center pass.

Dick Reed returned the third period kickoff to Goshen's 47 and on the next play McCracken finished out the distance to register. Bowman's kick boosted the total to 26-0. Barnes passed to Van Brocklin who intercepted to Baker for a touchdown play covering 33 yards. The kick was blocked.

Dick Reed intercepted a pass speeding 30 yards for the last touchdown.

Sugar Bowl Committee Told To Get Army For New Year's

NEW YORK — If Fred Digby and the other members of the Sugar Bowl committee are as smart as they have been to date, they'll invite Army to New Orleans on New Year's Day, right now.

And have the greatest football show on earth.

This is a rousing West Point team, mates, and it stands a grand chance of going through unbeaten. There is the closing traditional scrap with Navy, of course, but Pennsylvania is the only real threat, Nov. 13.

The Villanova veterans who opposed the Cadets for the fourth straight fall say Arnold Gallif, Bobby Jack Stuart, Joe Herby and Company are a harder-hitting outfit than were the Doc Blanchard and Junior Davis editions.

"It might have been that they kept the pressure on us to a greater extent with the two platoons," explain the Wildcats, "but they sure belted us."

Ray Elliot was forced to adopt virtually a no-contact policy at Illinois for the entire week after the Future Generals' visit to Champaign. The Illinois athletes who played any length of time were that badly battered and bruised.

Army's running attack rolled to its second highest yard total in history—441 yards. This monumental total fell just 33 yards short of Army's all-time high of 474 recorded in 1945 against Melville Torpedo Boat School in the heyday of Blanchard and Davis.

The Army players voted to show off their stickout Davis before the home folks in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1, 1947, but were squeezed out when the Western Conference insisted that its agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference be started immediately, if not sooner.

This after refusing to have anything to do with the Tournament of Roses for 26 years.

Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent of the Military Academy, gave his permission for the Pasadena trip, and there is no reason to suspect that the old paratrooper would respect a bid from New Orleans.

It's too bad the entire cadet corps can't go, and give the Sugar Bowl a touch of the Army-Navy game color, and the most magnetic attraction in its history.

That would be a bit too costly, however, as other centers have discovered in seeking the Army-Navy game. Lt.-Col. O. C. Krueger, graduate manager on the Plain, figures it would cost close to $400,000 to cart the nearly 2500 cadets to New Orleans.
There is nothing to stop the Army football squad from going south, however, and there would be no loss of academic time. All the players have to do is waive their Christmas leave for football.
It would be a tremendous boost for Army recruiting.

HARRY GRABINER DIES OF BRAIN AILMENT AT 57

CHICAGO, Oct. 25—Harry Grabiner, who rose from peanut vendor to vice president of the Chicago White Sox, died in a coma yesterday 48 hours after undergoing an operation for brain tumor.

Grabiner was with the Comiskey club 41 years before resigning in 1945. In 1946 he became associated with Bill Veeck as vice president of the Cleveland Indians.

Although only 57, Grabiner was third only to Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators in years of American league service.

He served as usher, vendor, ticket seller and grandstand sweeper before being appointed assistant secretary of the Comiskey organization at the age of 15. He became secretary in 1915 when Charley Fredericks died.

By the time the New York Giants and the White Sox met in the 1917 World Series, Grabiner was general manager and vice president, positions he held for 28 years.

Grabiner entered St. Luke's hospital in Chicago last Monday for a routine examination which revealed the brain tumor.

ATHENS, — Ohio university yesterday announced discontinuance of intercollegiate wrestling, a varsity sport since 1918. Difficulty in arranging a schedule was given as the reason for abandoning the sport.

Leetonia Marshal Arrests Man Who Howled Like Dog

An insane man, a rainy night, an eerie wooded countryside, spine-tingling screams at the moon and 16 hunters gliding from tree to tree through the woods in search of the man, might well be the setting of a mystery thriller.
But this was exactly the situation in a Leetonia woods one night recently.

According to Marshal Henry Gibson, he received a call from the Pennsylvania railroad camp cars, which are situated at the Grafton yards west of Leetonia. One of the workers there, Charles Brown of Sharon, had suddenly gone into the nearby woods and every time the moon would come out from behind the clouds Brown would "howl like a dog."

Gibson said that he, Special Policeman Allen Gibson, and a group of about 15 very frightened railroad workers spent almost four hours in the woods trying to catch Brown. But Brown was successful in dodging the men. Due to the heavy rain the men gave up the search until morning.

When Gibson went to the camp cars in the morning he found that Brown had come back to the settlement but the marshal had to put him in handcuffs to bring him to the village hall for questioning.

Gibson discovered that Brown was a former army man who was discharged under a minimum value to the government law. As he was a former patient at Deshon hospital in Butler, Leslie Morris, American Legion service officer, was called. Morris contacted hospital authorities and secured permission for Brown to be admitted to the hospital.

Morris, Marshal Gibson and Allen Gibson then took Brown to Butler. The marshal said it was necessary to keep Brown handcuffed as he kept yelling that he wanted to go back to the woods with his friends, and tried to do so.

Further investigation revealed that Brown was under parole to the federal court in Pittsburgh on a narcotics charge.

Council expects to secure additional funds for the erection of the new municipal building through the sale of the lot on which the present century-old city hall stands. under study can be used as a basis of negotiation.

The Palestine issue is a touchy one in all of the cities where Truman and Dewey will voice their final appeals for votes. The two candidates will speak 24 hours apart in Chicago, Cleveland and Boston. Both also have addresses booked in New York City.

Truman spent 14 hours back at the White House yesterday after his Pennsylvania swing, climaxed by a Pittsburgh speech Saturday night. The President likened Dewey there to a doctor who says the American people need a major operation even though they are "feeling fine and never had a brighter future."

Dewey's aides said he will close out his campaign by holding to his theme that a Republican victory would be a unifying influence for the country.

Ohio Population Increase Affects Utilities' Trade

COLUMBUS — Ohio's population increase has put too great a demand on the state's telephone, gas and electric companies, State Utilities commission member Paul E. Welland said today.

Welland said that in addition to the usual gas supply problem this winter, there probably will be a shortage of electricity.

"In addition to that," he added, "the telephone companies, especially the independent companies, are unable to supply phones to all the potential customers."

The commissioner blamed the shortages on the 11.1 per cent increase in population since 1940. He said the 1940 census put Ohio's population at 6,907,612. Last year, he added, the government estimated the state's population at 7,675,000, an increase of 767,388 since 1940.

In addition, 183 new industrial plants have been built in the state since the end of the war, Welland said.

Utilities in Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Lima are considering the possibility of curtailing electric power to industrial customers at peak hours so the domestic supply can be maintained, the utilities commissioner said.

The Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. has urged domestic users to cut down on their use of electricity during peak hours because it cannot meet the total demand.

Welland said telephone companies have been unable to get the necessary equipment to expand their services as much as they would like. He estimated that the phone equipment shortage and the electrical supply problem would be solved in a year.

"As for the gas problem, we won-

Personal Influence In Child Training Stressed

"Personal influence and religion will contribute to giving a child a chance," according to Harold A. Zealley, superintendent of Salem City hospital, guest speaker at a meeting of the Men's Missionary movement of the First Friends church Monday evening.

Using for his theme, "Children With A Chance," Supt. Zealley said: "So many thousand 'substitute' teachers in our own state are not making education a chance. One teacher can ruin an education."

L. E. Allen, Donald Roher, Scott

Herbert and Raymond Ingram comprised the committee in charge.

Letters were read from missionaries.

Clarence Townsend directed the group singing, with B. J. Bostrom at the piano.

Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Roher, Mrs.

MISSOURI RIVER SWALLOWS HOUSE

OMAHA, Neb.—The Missouri river played a "now you see it, now you don't" trick on Rex Elwood of Omaha.

Elwood owned a two story house on the west bank of Swenson Island in the Missouri river opposite Fort Calhoun. It was there one day; the next day it wasn't.

A tenant, Mike Lamb, told Elwood he moved out when churning waters of the "Big Muddy" began nibbling at a corner of the foundation.

Six months ago the river was 200 yards from Elwood's property.

"Now," he said sadly, "I own a good section of river bottom."

He attributed the loss to the diversion of the main channel near the head of the island.

Long Locks May Be Outdated

BY ALICIA HART

NEA Staff Writer

A woman's refusal to lop off her locks to conform with the styles of the day advertises her age for two reasons. One reason is that a no-change attitude that bucks the mode is an attitude of age. Another reason is that hair which hasn't been cut or shaped for 10, how many years, is almost certain to make the lady with the long, unwieldy locks look dated.

Nothing seems to add as many unfair years to a woman's age as an out-moded hair-do. The most aging arrangement is apt to be the top-knot for which a mass of long hair is coiled up and pinned to the top of the head. Yet such length and abundance of hair have the makings of a smart, youthful coiffure.

All the lady who is so blessed need do is have her hair shortened and then put a permanent into and tapered for easier manipulation the ends, if there is no natural curl. Shorter, earlier hair lends itself to a variety of smart arrangements which should be experimented with by the woman who would like to take an easy short-cut to a more youthful appearance.

House With Kitchen Built In Front Saves Many Steps

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—Pity poor Phyllis Williams. Her job is to take several baths a day—in front of a lot of people. No soap, even.

Phyllis (aged 25; shoe size 6½; height 5½ feet; hair blond; personality "yes"; bust 35) is a professional model, and a job's a job.

She's working this week for an outfit called the Logan Manufacturing company of Glendale, Calif., which makes glass showers guaranteed not to wet up a permanent or maroon on account of the spout is pointed down and shoots a stream below the neck instead of above.

Phyllis does her stuff in an aquamarine (green) bathing suit, which is all in one piece, at the home builders show here. That's work. At home she spends almost all her time rubbing her pretty knuckles to the second joint over a hot wren board, dusting tables and dressers and stirring up batches of chocolate cookies. A home builder on her own time.

So much for Phyllis, whose only comment on her present assignment is that the water is fine, the pay is good, but changing bathing suits between baths is a doggone nuisance. Our pretty lady also didn't much like the signs the Logan folks put up behind her shower—which is open on all sides like a goldfish bowl. The notices said that the shower is fine for homes, hotels, apartments, playgrounds—and prisons.

Anyhow, to get back to home building. And to the kitchen, if you please.

The builders have an idea for the home of tomorrow that Mama may or may not like. Mom, grab your chair.

How would you like the kitchen in the front of the house instead of the back?

The home builders really don't give much of a hoot. They'll put it wherever you say. They are just thinking of you—and how many steps you would save during the day.

Say you've got your head in the oven and the chimneys on the front doorbell ring. You're right there. You can practically hang onto the roaster with one hand and open the door with the other.

The builders put it this way—thinking of you, Mom:

"You'll have more privacy in the back yard, because while you are putting the kitchen in front you'll also be smart to put the garage there. The kitchen, understand, doesn't necessarily have to have THE front door, but ANOTHER front door."

Nothing wrong with two front doors.

The builders also point out that with this sort of arrangement, you can have the delivery entrance right up there in front.

Real Estate Agents Accused of Defraud

CLEVELAND, Oct. 25—Three Ohio real estate agents will be arraigned in Federal court here Wednesday on charges of frauding war veterans in the sale of homes.

The three are Mrs. H. Lucetta Jones, a widow who operated the E. F. Jones Realty Co. at Ravenna; Mrs. Margaret Fraley of Akron and R. S. Richner of Cleveland. Their indictments were among 22 true bills returned yesterday to Judge Paul Jones.

The government charged Mrs. Jones sold the home of S. R. Miller at 207 Diamond st. in Ravenna to John Kontos, a war veteran, on Sept. 25, 1946, and made two contracts. The contract under which a G.I. loan was approved showed the transaction involved a total of $7,100, while a second contract was made in which the selling price was $7,500. It was stipulated that the second contract was to be secret.

What a Load for Santa

This toy playhouse may appeal to the youngsters, but it'll probably give Santa Claus a pain in the back. Tommy Walsh of New York City and Jamie Fraser of Manhasset, L. I., both 4, try out the collapsible playhouse at the American Toy Institute in New York.

Safety Rules Are Broken In Homes

CHICAGO — Too many safety rules are being broken in the designing of new homes, a building executive said today.

Tyler S. Rogers of the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., Toledo, told the home section of the National Safety congress that home design deserves concentrated action because it is a contributory cause to thousands of accidents each year.

He said that architects and designers, trying to cut corners to meet demands for lower costs, often are overlooking safety rules.

"We are, I fear, building broken legs, arms, necks, and heads into altogether too many new houses," said Rogers.

Rogers said much of the blame rests upon owners who ask for unsafe features in their houses.

"Some of them are entranced with the narrow, steep, winding staircase found in many old center-chimney salt-box or Cape Cod houses of colonial days," he said.

"Others want a winding, gracefully curved staircase reminiscent of the grand manor houses they have seen in the movies—but they won't have the space to make them reasonably safe," said Rogers.

He said manufacturers of home appliances and furnishings must share the blame with owners, architects and designers.

"It isn't enough merely to require these products be safe when properly used," he said. "We would insist that they be designed so that they cannot become hazardous even when improperly used."

Studies Find Poets Make Good Soldiers

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Poets and philosophers seem to make better combat soldiers than engineers, according to a Harvard University psychologist.

The common notion that engineers and other persons with so-called "precision" minds are the best soldiers may be wrong, Dr. Frederick L. Wells says.

To support his contention, Dr. Wells offers case studies of men in World War II. Some men who shunned the exacting studies like mathematics and were interested in poetry, history and philosophy were fine combat soldiers. On the other hand, men with engineering minds too often wound up on desk jobs far from combat.

Dr. Wells sums it up this way: "If you want to see war action, be a verbalist. A verbalist is one who is interested and skilled in using words."

Perhaps the first individual to buy land from the Indians in the United States was George Durant, who bought a large tract in northeastern North Carolina from Chief Klicoacan of the Yeopim tribe. The deed, dated 1661, is in the courthouse at Mifflin, N. C.

Demonstrates New Surgery To Prevent Artery Trouble

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter
(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25—A spectacular new operation which restores arteries that have been stopped up by injury, hardening or other disease was demonstrated for the first time today to the American College of Surgeons.

The arteries are slit lengthwise for as much as two feet. Clotted blood, dead tissue and fat-like substances clogging them are literally scooped out until the inside diameter of the blood vessel is large enough to do its work again.

Since it was first tried a year ago about 100 such operations have been performed, said Dr. Louis Bazy, surgeon of St. Louis hospital, Paris, who developed the technique. Dr. Bazy demonstrated it with motion pictures.

Only arteries in the legs, arms and lower abdomen have been worked on thus far, Dr. Bazy said, however, he planned to try it on the big arteries nearer the heart, where hardening and clots are more deadly.

The operation is a daring one. Not only because of the length of the cuts but also because it removes the normal inner lining of the blood vessel. There has been a long standing belief that arteries must have this special lining, otherwise blood would clot as it passes through the vessel.

Dr. Bazy reported he found that white blood cells attach themselves to the raw new inner surface of the treated artery, forming a lining that prevents clotting.

When lesser arteries are mangled by injury and closed by clots or debris or choked by the hardening process, nature often takes a hand by rerouting blood through still smaller blood vessels and detouring it around the blocked section. Often the detour channel is not large enough to carry sufficient blood to the parts of the body beyond the blockade. This may mean a damaged or crippled arm or leg. The new operation can remedy that, Dr. Bazy said.

It can relieve some cases of hardening that result in high blood pressure and some of the blood vessel damage from diabetes, Dr. Bazy reported.

Stiff Fines Proposed For Smoking in Bed

ROCKFORD, Ill.—The city council is considering passing an ordinance timed at persons who smoke in bed.

The proposal would subject a person smoking a cigarette, cigar or pipe in a "careless, reckless or negligent manner" and causing a fire to a fine of $50 to $200.

"We've had a lot of fires that were caused by people smoking in bed," said Alderman Alga Reece, who introduced the measure. "We think this ordinance will help stop the practice."
